Experienced Road Builder Selected Superintendent of Board of Public Works After June 1

14 Years Here

Roosa Leaves General Foreman's Job With County to Take New Post

Harver Roosa, an experienced road builder, was appointed superintendent of the Board of Public Works at a special meeting of the board held Thursday afternoon at the city hall. Superintendent Roosa was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of David P. Conway, who on June 2, accepts a position as engineering inspector on the New York water works department.

The board met that afternoon to accept the resignation which Superintendent Conway had filed. Superintendent Conway's resignation read as follows:

May 26, 1938
To the Honorable Conrad J. Heiselman, Mayor and to
Commissioners Phelps, Kaplan, Emerick and Egan of the Board of Public Works
Gentlemen:

After three years of pleasant association with the administration of Mayor Heiselman as your Superintendent of Public Works, I have received what I believe to be an advantageous appointment from the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York. In consequence, I hereby submit my resignation to your body, effective June 1st, 1938.

That association I shall always prize for its rich reward of knowledge and experience which I gained during that time. I am sincerely mindful that whatever small degree of success was attained by me in the operation of your board was due entirely to the careful guidance, wholehearted co-operation and assistance which I received at all times from this board, by the cautious counsel of Mayor Heiselman and other city officials and by the faithful sincerity of the employees of the department both in the office and in the field, for which I am truly appreciative.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed)
DAVID P. CONWAY
Superintendent

Pays High Tribute.
In accepting Mr. Conway's resignation the board paid a high tribute to the sterling character and ability of the retiring superintendent and wished him success in his new undertaking.

Mr. Roosa, who succeeds Mr. Conway, is 48 years old and was born in West Shokan. He has lived in Kingston for 14 years.

Uniform Wage Southern Congressmen Encouraged Against Bill in Compromise Committee

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Southern congressmen fighting a nationally-uniform minimum wage gained encouragement today from the fact that a majority of seven senators chosen to draft a compromise wage-hour bill favors regional differentials.

Most of the prospective House members of the joint conference committee, on the other hand, are expected to fight pay concessions. Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), leading opponent of the legislation, said the committee's action would determine whether an extended fight would be made later on the floor. He indicated, however, that he believed passage of some wage-hour bill was inevitable.

The number of Senate conferees was increased from five to seven late yesterday to permit inclusion of two southerners—Senators Ellender (D-La.) and Pepper (D-Fla.).

From Ellender came a suggestion that the wage-hour regulations proposed in both the Senate and House bills be "softened," although he said he favored attaining the ultimate goal of a 40-hour week and 40 cents an hour minimum pay.

Delegates of 21 nations celebrated Mass in 41 churches and chapels, each group displaying its national banner, in a feature of the third day of the Congress.

Limited Freedom Spending Foes See Or Third New Deal Chance to Restrict Johnson Tells Steel Political Activity

Middle Course Only Way to Defeat "Mr. Roosevelt and Janissaries" Says Former New Dealer

New York, May 27 (AP)—The best that business and industry can expect from the future, says General Hugh S. Johnson, is "regulated freedom—like all the rest of the folks."

He expounded his views before the annual dinner of the American Iron and Steel Institute last night.

"The change of popular opinion in this country toward government regulation" has been so great, he said, that there is no chance of going back to unregulated economic freedom under futile anti-trust laws.

Thus, he saw the only choice as lying between "a third New Deal nightmare" and "a common-sense compromise."

The compromise, he said, involved recognition of collective bargaining as "the law of the land" and the "sentiment of the people," and reductions in steel prices, "even at a considerable sacrifice of profits or even if some high cost producers are eliminated."

"If you can sincerely accept that middle course and accommodate yourself to it, you can steal this third New Deal show and save our system."

Upholding his compromise plea, Johnson said "this is a middle-of-the-road country... it doesn't want to go off the deep end to the left with Mr. Roosevelt's janissaries any more than it wants to go deepward to the right with anybody in industry."

Johnson's outcry against steel prices drew an immediate reply from Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the Republican Steel Corporation.

Wall Street Stock Firm Is Accused Of Public Frauds

Paine, Webber & Co. Injunction Against Future Business Sought Today by Attorney General Bennett

19 Individuals

Nineteen Individuals and Four Corporations Also Named as Defendants

New York, May 27 (AP)—State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., today asked in State Supreme Court that all partners of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Paine, Webber & Co., a leading commission house with offices in 19 cities, be forever enjoined from engaging in the securities business in New York state on the ground of alleged frauds against the public.

Bennett, in allegations sworn to by his assistant, John R. O'Hanlon, accused the defendant partners of Paine, Webber & Co. of employing fraudulent practices upon the state and upon the public in connection with substitution of "unmarketable" securities of "little or no value" for diversified portfolios of a number of investment trusts in which the public invested approximately $16,000,000.

Nineteen individuals and four corporations are named as defendants in addition to the Paine, Webber group.

During the past six months, according to O'Hanlon's supporting affidavit, operations involved "at least six investment trusts representing an aggregate public investment of over $16,000,000."

These trusts, he said, were: First Income Trading Corp., Continental Securities Corp., Reynolds Investing Co., Inc., Insurashares Corp., of Delaware, Bond & Share Trading Corp., and Bureo, Inc.

Pending hearing on Bennett's application for a permanent injunction against all the defendants, Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman issued a three-fold restraining order and set June 7, for hearing to show cause why temporary and permanent injunctions should not be issued.

In the preliminary order one group of defendants, including a former Paine, Webber attorney, are immediately restrained from engaging in the securities business in New York.

A second group of defendants, including two individuals, American National Bank and John B. Shearer, and four investment trusts, Bureo, Inc., Insurashares Corp., of Delaware, Bond and Share Trading Corp., and First Income Trading Corp., are similarly enjoined.

The Paine, Webber & Co. Partners and Partners of the erstwhile New York Stock Exchange firm of Prentice & Brady, now in process of liquidation, grouped together in the third section of the order, are immediately restrained from engaging in financial transactions affecting control of investment trusts, and also from selling securities from the portfolio of any investment trust without written permission of all holders of interest.

Phantom Mystery Solved by Police, Is 15 Years Old

The mysterious phantom whom the police sought last year has finally been caught. He is a 15-year-old boy and was arrested last night by the police when they caught him playing "Peeping Tom" in the backyard of a local residence. The boy's name was not divulged by the police, owing to his youth, and he will be arraigned later in children's court.

The police, according to a statement of his activities and his various appearances about the city coincided with the reports made to the police during the reign of the terror.

The story told by the phantom is a sordid one according to police and the details of the statement he made were not made public.

The activities of the phantom were cut short owing to renewed activity on the part of the police, and his several narrow escapes from capture.

For several nights recently the police have been receiving complaints of a "Peeping Tom" who lurked in backyards and peeped through windows into houses. A close watch was kept and it resulted in the final capture of the youth last night.

Dewey Sentiment Sweeps GOP Today At Niagara Parley

"Dewey for Governor" Sentiment Sweeps Opening of State Republican Club Convention

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 27 (AP)—A strong wave of Thomas E. Dewey for governor sentiment swept over the opening of the New York state Republican Club convention today.

Manhattan's racket busting district attorney remained the key figure of the GOP gubernatorial race in convention talk despite his declaration early this week he was not a candidate "for any other office" than the one he holds.

Sharing interest with the Dewey-for-governor movement as the scheduled visit Saturday night of Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican nominee for president, who will address the convention.

Chief support for drafting Dewey as a candidate came from the upstate area headed by the big Erie county delegation.

Assemblywoman Jane H. Todd, Tarrytown, who just completed an upstate tour, said she had found strong support for Dewey and Representative Bruce Barton, (R-NY) as gubernatorial possibilities among state Republican women.

"Women everywhere are impressed by both men and are particularly anxious to have a new figure in the race," she explained. Albany's club already has endorsed Dewey.

Only lukewarm support by the powerful New York City delegation met the upstate Dewey-for-governor movement. An officer in the delegation pointed out voted York city voters had just now rackets and would be loath to support Dewey.

New Tokyo Cabinet Meets

Tokyo, May 27 (AP)—Japan's new "quick victory" cabinet, reorganized to include two or her most influential retired generals, met today for the first time.

A powerful financial figure in the cabinet, held the most important posts, held his first session today and mapped a more sweeping campaign in China.

Details of the revamped cabinet's policy were not immediately made known to the public.

However, General Kazushige Ugaki, former minister of war and governor-general of Korea, who succeeded Koki Hirota as foreign minister, cryptically remarked: "I am going to do something."

Blocked by army leaders in his efforts to form a cabinet last year, he long has been noted for his liberal tendencies.

Ohlson Reopens Bitter Feud With His Antagonists on TVA Board—Writes to H. A. Morgan

Lillenthal and H. A. Morgan File Memorandum Suggesting Study

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Dr. A. E. Morgan apparently declined today to recognize the validity of President Roosevelt's order removing him from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Reopening his bitter public feud with his antagonists on the TVA board, the Ohio engineer and educator addressed a letter to H. A. Morgan as "vice chairman, the Tennessee Valley Authority," despite the fact that President Roosevelt had designated H. A. Morgan chairman.

The letter was inspired by H. A. Morgan's criticisms of A. E. Morgan during a congressional investigating committee's hearing Wednesday and yesterday of the charges and counter charges which directors H. A. Morgan and David E. Lillenthal, on the one hand, and A. E. Morgan, on the other, have exchanged.

A. E. Morgan denied that his efforts to prevent a real estate boom at Muscle Shoals just prior to TVA development of that area were "highly visionary" as he said H. A. Morgan had charged. A. E. Morgan likewise denied that his plans to construct a cement plant fell into that category.

Early History
Today's letter went into great detail about the first months of A. E. Morgan's management of the agency in an effort to show that he did not try to "dominate" the TVA with a "rule or ruin" force and added:

"With access to TVA records I shall reply in detail to the other statements of you and Mr. Lillenthal."

Meanwhile David E. Lillenthal and Harecutt A. Morgan, after denying charges of mismanagement and accusing the ousted Arthur E. Morgan of obstructing TVA policies, filed a memorandum suggesting the Senate House committee study.

Legal actions started by utilities against the TVA and affiliated agencies.

Purported erection of "spite line" in rural areas by private companies to "hamper rural electrification" by the TVA.

Operators of citizens' committees and other groups opposing municipal utility ownership, which were ostensibly of purely local origin but may have been inspired and financed by private power companies.

Hines Indicted Tammany Leader Faces Fight for Control of District Leadership

New York, May 27 (AP)—James J. Hines, free today on bail after his indictment as political protector of the Dutch Schultz mob, faced a new threat to his power—an almost inevitable attack on the Tammany district leadership he has held against all challengers since 1912.

Knowing politicians predicted Hines was through politically, whether or not he escapes conviction.

Named in a 13-count indictment as a partner with eight others in the lottery racket once dominated by the slain Schultz, Hines yesterday pleaded innocent to the charges, which carry a maximum 25-year prison sentence.

His arrest was engineered by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, youthful crusader of a fusion administration which has all but smothered Tammany Hall with two successive defeats at the polls and nearly starved it for want of patronage.

Dewey's office, while hoping to go to court July 5, has promised a trial at least before fall. Two co-defendants are fugitives and one is believed dead.

10 Years in Prison

Bucharest, May 27 (AP)—Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, leader of Rumania's outlawed Iron Guard, today was under a military court's sentence to 10 years of forced labor. The would-be Rumanian Fuehrer was convicted of treason charges after a three-hour deliberation early today.

During the trial a letter was produced, assertedly written by Codreanu, asking for German Nazi funds and support.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
OF Science Editor

Boston—Medical myths: the athletic heart; use digitalis for pneumonia; dampness causes malaria.

These were cited by Roger I. Lee, M. D., in a report to the American College of Physicians, to show how even the best medical observations can lead to wrong opinions.

"The myth of the athlete heart," he said, "is an excellent example of faulty observation. A few cases of cardiac disease or death were cited to furnish the statistical evidence. Then extraordinary conclusions of all sorts were made."

"Instruments of precision showed the original observations to be erroneous. But the belief was kept alive by a credence in the statistical evidence although this evidence satisfied no statistical requirement."

"Certainly a little thought indicates many other factors that might affect the heart in addition to 'athlete's heart'."

The belief in digitalis for pneumonia came from use of the electrocardiograph. The instrument that electrically records heart beats. Digitalis for pneumonia patients, said Dr. Lee, became almost routine overnight. Yet later it was shown that digitalis actually was detrimental in the average case of pneumonia.

New Anti-Tank Weapon Is Being Tested by Army

New York—A new 37 mm. anti-tank gun, which fires a shell at such a velocity that it can penetrate more than an inch of armor at more than 1,000 yards, is now being tested by the army.

The gun is basically the German 37 mm. anti-tank weapon which has done such yeoman service in Spain and has been praised by many military experts. But the German gun has been modified and improved in the country.

Still in the development stage, and is yet nowhere near ready for production, it combines most of the advantages of the German gun—mobility, low carriage and easy concealment qualities, high velocity and penetrative power. The improved gun, a single-shot weapon, still weighs too much to satisfy the army, but it is believed it can take the measure of nearly any light or medium tank in the world.

WHAT GERMANY WANTS

One fact ignored in Nazi claims for making western Czechoslovakia a part of Nazi Germany is that those Sudeten Germans are where they are because their ancestors chose to live there. Though most of them seem inclined to rejoin the Fatherland, the reasons given for such a step are unconvincing. They are living where they or their ancestors chose to live, and they have not been persecuted by the Czechoslovakian republic as their leaders pretend.

As regards the German arguments for their "repatriation", Dorothy Thompson, who had ample opportunity to study the situation there, writes: "Those who listen to the German claims seem utterly to forget that what Germany is asking for is not German people, but the territory on which they live as well, territory which they colonized centuries ago in a great push eastward. Any German Nazi who wants to be joined with the Reich can join himself to it, with the blessing of the Czechoslovakian republic. But Germany does not want her Germans. She wants a lot of landscape, factories, mines, banks, schools and what not that never in her whole history belonged to her."

Czechoslovakia could solve the problem easily enough, she thinks, if there were good faith and not imperialism behind the minority agitation. It could let every German-speaking citizen choose whether he wanted to live in that democratic country with his own culture, but subject to the general laws governing other racial groups there. If he chose not to remain, he could be given time and opportunity to liquidate his affairs, take his property and move to Germany. The Czechoslovakian government would probably agree to that, making the conditions infinitely fairer than those imposed by the Hitler government on the Jewish minority in Germany.

If Hitler pleaded lack of territory for such repatriation, Miss Thompson suggests, Czechoslovakia could take in return all the refugees from Germany who would rather live under a democratic system. They would change places. But it is hard to imagine the Nazis agreeing to that.

RADIO FOR LATIN-AMERICAN

Perhaps, as Frank E. Mason of the N.B.C. says, the best propaganda to use among our Latin-American neighbors is no propaganda. This principle would be especially applicable to government-owned stations, such as have been under consideration at Washington. South American countries are rebelling, he says, against European propaganda, and he thinks they would do likewise with American efforts to direct their thinking. Stations privately owned and operated are less inclined to propaganda along political or "ideological" lines than public stations are, and so may fill the bill better as regards cultivating friendliness in foreign countries. Mr. Mason thinks the private companies are doing, or can do, all that is necessary, and they would prefer to have the job exclusively.

There is logic in this argument. It must be admitted, though, that private broadcasting itself may need tempering somewhat to fit the Latin-American taste. We are far ahead of the rest of this hemisphere in radio technique and wealth of talent, but our temperament and manners are very different. We North American listeners stand for a surprising amount of loud-talking miscellaneous racket and confusion, personal kidding among radio performers, and so on, contrasting strongly with the mild and gentle delivery of broadcasters in other countries. Latin-American ears are sensitive. Latin-American "plugging" for commercial products on the air is quiet and courteous. We shall have to modify our commercial-appeal style in short-wave programs aimed southward.

STERILE FILMS

An eastern newspaper woman visiting Hollywood and surveying its recent work says that in the last year pictures "have found a new low level". She means artistically and dramatically, not morally. She found only seven first-rate pictures for the year.

"Why? The campaign for picture cleanliness," she says, "in my opinion has been carried to the point of sterilization. Many subjects that gave meat and blood to pictures, such as honest presentations of pre-marriage difficulties, husband-wife-and-the-other-woman triangles, political upheavals, are now taboo. There isn't enough of what is left to make more than a handful of good adult pictures—presuming, of course, that pictures are made for adults."

Here is room for argument. Cleanliness and decency are obviously desirable, in a popular art ministering to all ages and classes in public places of assembly. But as the critic suggests, it is possible to carry this moral principle too far. Complete "sterilization" means sterile and futile art. Films may be decent without reminding an audience of Eugene Field's "antiseptic baby and prophylactic pup."

RELIEF GARDENS

How much gardening is done by people on public relief? Most of them have no gardens of their own; but how many would cultivate gardens lying idle in their neighborhoods, or parcels of land out in the country, if they had access to them and tools to use?

Doubtless a great many. The worst curse of unemployment and dependency, to normal people—and most of these depression victims are normal—is their forced idleness. Useful activity, especially the cultivation of the soil, has always had a wholesome effect on the human spirit as well as providing material benefits. The relief family that can raise a few vegetables and flowers for its own use is better off in every way, and may preserve its health and morale, also its faith in life and humanity, when otherwise it might sink into hopelessness and bitterness. Anyone with unused land in or near town might confer a blessing on some family by offering it for such use.

Some people who think paper money is wealth seem worried about the billion-dollar wheat crop.

Most of what we call "social problems" are unsocial problems.

STRONG EMOTION DURING EXERCISE

Some years ago I wrote an article for one of the weekly magazines entitled "What's Wrong With Golf?" I was making the point that only two types of people should play golf, (a) the one who had learned to play golf in a "natural" manner just as he had learned to swim or ride a bicycle, and (b) the one who did not care what his score was.

The individual who eats a hasty meal, hurries to the golf course, keeps his mind tensed trying to remember all the points—left foot in line with the ball, easy stance, draw club back from the line with what would be the down swing, keeping head down, left eye on ball and still more and more of those instructions—is putting a great strain on his heart and bloodvessels, entirely aside from the physical exertion of walking, climbing hills, and hitting or trying to hit the ball. Fatigue comes on early in these cases because the brain enters into the exercise; once a sport or exercise has been learned the brain is not needed and fatigue does not come on so soon. No one has to remember how to ride a horse or a bicycle, or how to swim; it is done entirely without thinking.

Further, during a game of golf it is not altogether unusual to see a player shake his club, throw it away, or even break it, as he becomes annoyed with his poor playing. This is also a terrible strain on heart and bloodvessels. Dr. Louis B. Laplace, Philadelphia, in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal some months ago, made this statement: "Activity accompanied by emotion is a greater strain on the heart than the same effort without emotion. Emotion is believed to bring on heart failure by stimulating the adrenal glands and making them pour more of their juice—adrenalin—into the blood." This juice, by constricting or partially closing the bloodvessels puts more work on the heart.

The thought then is that if a heart is damaged, rest is the best treatment; if there is some failure, very little if any, exercise should be taken. And even when the heart is normal it should be remembered that with the brain being used in the exercise, besides the work put on the heart by the exercise, there should not be further strain put on it by emotional upsetment during play or exercise.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quamnet. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Frye disappears because someone who smokes Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000 worth of ambergris she found. Agreeable Tim Carr, boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. And Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash looks deliberate, is offering a reward for the murderer. Asey decides to locate Pam's ambergris and make sure it is safe.

Chapter 19

Asey Putties The Windows

Asey backed his truck into a driveway, and finally managed to maneuver along to a lane leading to the network of back roads. After plowing interminably through sandy ruts, he at last turned off on a road which eventually wound past Octagon House and the Lorne cottage.

An amazingly small group, a mere handful, waited outside the barred wire barrier. For the most part they looked like local people. Asey leaned out and inquired what had become of the tourists. The man shrugged. "I don't know. I guess they're up town. They don't seem to care much "For gosh sakes," the trooper said wearily, "go putty your damned windows and shut your face! Hey—hey, Ding!" He yelled to still another trooper who was just entering the house. "This guy's going to putty the windows. He's all right. He's harmless."

"Huh," Asey said, trying to sound badly ruffled. "It sure takes you fellows a long time to make your minds up!"

Swinging the putty pail and gripping the putty knife, he made a slow and searching circuit of the house. The cellar windows were large four-paned things, and they needed putty just about as badly as he thought they would. He could putty practically till doomsday, or until someone got suspicious and sent him away.

From what he could gather by peering through the windows, the cellar floor plan was a strange and wonderful thing. The hall apparently ran diagonally through the place, slicing the octagon and leaving visible two triangular small rooms, two rectangles—slightly bashed—and two hybrid rooms that seemed to have at least six walls apiece. He rather hated to contemplate what happened in the middle of the place, beyond his line of vision. He strongly suspected that there was a circular staircase to the first floor, at the very least.

'A Lovely Idea'

THE trooper stopped him as he started a second trip about the outside.

The policeman barred Asey's way.

about the murder, or the mural either. They're just out for a good time."

"Then I guess," Asey said, "I can get this lousy dump. I been tryin' all day to dump it here, and they wouldn't let me."

The policeman at the barrier, overhearing Asey's remark, announced that he couldn't dump it now.

"I'd like to know why," Asey said crossly. "Pam Frye ordered this lousy dump, and I've brought it, and I can't waste any more time cartin' it around, and I need my truck. I can't see how I'm goin' to hurt anyone, just dumpin' a little lousy dump, some work I been paid to do."

He spoke loudly enough for everyone to hear, and the group promptly took his side. What harm was a little lousy dump, if a man needed his truck? They discussed the situation with gusto until the officer bowed to public opinion and let Asey through.

Asey wheeled off the lousy dump into a neat pile by the back porch, while another trooper watched him suspiciously.

"Now," Asey put down his shovel, "now, mister. I want to see Aaron Frye. Ask him—"

"You can't."

"Well, then, you go ask him what window he wants me to begin puttin' putty on first, mister. I got work to do."

"You can't see Frye, and you can't do any work around here," the trooper said. "Beat it!"

He's Harmless

Asey took a can of putty and a knife from the front seat of the truck. Pam Frye hired me last week to fix these windows," he said, "and I'm a-goin' to fix 'em. An' who do you bunch of Cossacks think you are? Go get your boss an' tell him to arrest a man that's got a job to do. I ain't doin' his work he's paid to do. Go on—well, why'n't you go?"

"Listen, the trooper said, "do you have to make trouble?"

"Who's makin' trouble?" Asey said. "I ain't makin' trouble. I'm just goin' to putty up some windows. Like Pam Frye hired me to do last week. Want you to putty the windows, says she. All right, says I'll putty 'em Sat-day afternoon, when I bring you the lousy dump for the back flower bed. If a feller's promised to putty windows, an' he's got just so much time to putty the windows when—"

"If you're going to putty, brother," he said, "you putty. Hear me?"

Asey sighed plaintively. "Look here," he said, "some of these windows needs putty more'n others does. How can I tell which needs it most, if you keep stoppin' an' interruptin' an' botherin' me so?"

"Get goin'!"

"All right," Asey said. "All right, I'll get goin'. No respect for a man's work, that's what's the matter with this world."

He made his way to the triangular furnace room window and removed all the putty from one pane with such deft celerity as to remove also whatever suspicions the trooper might have been entertaining. Then he proceeded to putty with infinite care.

A slight noise in the first floor window above temporarily disconcerted him. He looked up to find the greenest parrot he had ever seen staring down at him fixedly from a perch in a cage.

The window sill lay Emma Goldmann, surveying him with a skeptical eye.

"Emma," he heard Mrs. Carr's voice as she entered the room, "Emma, must you park under that bird? Can't you just be a good cat, and sit, and relax, and breathe the nice air? You cannot get that parrot, and don't you try. She'll snap at you. Look, you the worst parrot I ever saw—if you don't like Emma, why don't you let her know it?"

"They enjoy this refined skir-mishing," Tim said, and closed the door. "Well, on the whole, what do you think of things, Gran?"

"I think on the whole," she said, "that we have been sufficiently open and garrulous to allay suspicions. It was a lovely idea of yours, Timmy, and I give you full credit. You're masterly with details. I always thought so. The only real where, in where did she put it? Where, in God's name did the girl put it?"

Asey felt as though someone had hiked him sharply between the eyes.

"Where did she put it?" Mrs. Carr asked again.

"Where?" Timothy sighed. "I don't know, Gran. All I'm sure of is that she hid it somewhere. No one's brought it to light yet, so it still must be here. It's got to be. And by heaven, I'm going to find it!"

BABSON on BUSINESS

NEW DEAL TIDE EBBING

Babson Urges Coalition of Conservative Democrats and Republicans

Babson, Park, Mass., May 27—The political tides are beginning to run against the New Deal. This is no partisan statement. It is merely a recognition of the inexorable Law of Action and Reaction as applied to politics. A few months from now the mid-term national elections will be held. Every member of the House, one-third of the Senate, 33 governors, and a large number of state legislators will then be up for re-election. Straws in the wind, showing the way 1940 will go are bound to emerge from these November elections. In fact, from the Spring primaries, we are already able to gain some idea of the trend.

Outstanding among these primaries was last week's vote in Pennsylvania—the second largest state in the Union, politically speaking. Here the defeat of John L. Lewis' candidate was the outstanding feature. A close second in importance was the unexpected landslide victory of Judge Arthur H. James for the Republican Governorship nomination.

The defeat of Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for Governor means that the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania are no longer enthusiastic over the CIO. Above all, they do not want the CIO in high political office.

Republican Primary Also Significant

Lieutenant-Governor Kennedy is secretary-treasurer of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union—which is the keystone in the arch of the CIO. Mr. Lewis staked his own political future on securing the nomination for Mr. Kennedy. More than that, the usually astute Jim Farley put the Administration out on a limb by giving an eleven-hour endorsement to Kennedy. It was an implied White House command to the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania. And what happened?

The voters administered a stinging rebuke to the President, to John L. Lewis, and to the CIO.

How is only part of the picture, however. On the Republican side the nomination had been conceded by many observers to ex-Governor Pinchot, erstwhile Progressive, and termed by his opponent Judge James as "half a New Dealer." The G. O. P. voters acted decisively. They rejected the so-called "liberal" Republican in favor of a man who had made his campaign a straight fight against the Administration at Washington. Conceding all this, my readers may ask—"So what?"

G. O. P. To Regain Pennsylvania

Here is what: Impartial observers forecast the election of a Republican Governor in Pennsylvania in November. Further, they expect to see Governor Earle defeated for the Senate by his friend Senator James J. Davis, who was nominated last week by the Republicans to succeed himself. Having in mind that the New Deal won a major victory in Pennsylvania less than two years ago, back. Last week's results showed that both the Democrats and the Republicans of Pennsylvania want no more New Deal programs—whether in the guise of a CIO official named Kennedy, or a "liberal" Republican named Pinchot.

As I said at the opening of this article, the tides are running against the New Deal. Here is another forecast, although you must realize that politics is a difficult subject to put under the scalpel of the statistician. This prediction is that the New Deal will lose around 75 seats in the House next November. The Republicans in Congress are beginning to show signs of life for the first time since 1933. They will be a real fighting group in the next session. Allied with the anti-New Deal Democrats, they have an excellent chance of restoring the constitutional system of checks and balances between Congress, the White House and the Supreme Court.

'Coalition or Chaos?'

This brings up sharply the question of 1940, particularly the presidential race. To me the issue is crystal clear—and Pennsylvania's primary results last week only serve to make me more certain of the situation. If the Republicans want to defeat the New Deal in 1940 and bring back a Conservative Administration to the nation, they can do it. But they must form a coalition with the Conservative Democrats. Both groups must unite on one man for their Presidential candidate and support him. First, the anti-New Deal Democrats must break away from the Rooseveltian "Democrats" and nominate one of their own men. Then, the G. O. P. should nominate the same Conservative Democrat as its candidate.

Here are some possibilities: Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Senator Harry Byrd of Missouri, Senator Walter George of Georgia, or Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina. Any of these men can give the combined Conservatives a victory over the New Deal candidate. If we are to avoid economic chaos in America, we must elect men to public office who realize that dishonest, soaring taxes are choking industry and lowering living standards. We must repeat our sins, if we do, big crops, low money rates, and new industries can give us the greatest prosperity America has ever seen.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 36—Fanny

Captain Jacob H. Tremper's first steamboat—that's the distinction that belongs to the "Fanny", and that is one reason why the history of the "Fanny" would be of interest to people in this vicinity who were acquainted with or have been informed of the activities of the later Captain Tremper who was a familiar figure in the history of steamboating on the Hudson river.

"The Fanny" was built in 1825 at New York for service on the Hudson river. She was only 104 feet long with a tonnage rating of 150, but she enjoyed a most successful career, running alternately on the Hudson and on Long Island Sound.

Owned originally by John Douglas of New York, the "Fanny" began regular service between New York and Hudson in the latter part of May, 1825, and occasionally extended her trips to Albany. On June 1, advertisements called attention to the fact that "The Fanny" was now outfitted with berths and would run regularly to Albany."

This innovation was rather short lived because of the small profit which was realized in steamboating at this time on the Hudson river, due in some measure to the number of lines in operation. On June 7, 1825, John Douglas disposed of a part interest in his vessel to Dwight Ripley, John Breed, Jedidiah Huntington, of Norwich, Conn., and thus the "Fanny" appeared on the Norwich-New York line, forming a new route to Boston via Long Island Sound. The "Fanny" ran in line with a new steamer called the "New London", until August of that year when the "New London" was purchased by the Troy Steamboat Company for service on the Hudson river, and the "Fanny" remained to run alone on the Sound route for a number of years.

On June 14, 1831, the "Fanny" was sold to Elijah Peck, of Oyster Bay, and a year later she was again sold, this time to Charles Hoyt, of Brooklyn, and Curtis Peck, of Flushing. During this period the "Fanny" ran to almost every harbor on the Sound.

A few years later the "Fanny" came into the possession of Jacob H. Tremper, of Rondout, who with this steamboat, established a line between New York and Marlborough. The "Fanny" plied the waters of the Hudson for a number of years in the service of Captain Tremper but she finally outlived her usefulness and was scrapped.

Sundown Stories

By Mary Graham Bonner
 The Watch Goes

WILLY NILLY knew that the watch must have been dropped in the pond long, long before the ducks had been around—for had that not been so they would have found it before now. Yet he felt it would only be right to put up notices in the nearby villages to say that a watch had been found.

Perhaps it had been some one's beloved watch—or maybe some one would know of a visitor who had been around the pond a long time before who had lost a watch and maybe that visitor could be traced. But he hoped it had been lost for such a long time that no one would bother about it now. Willy really loved the watch—a present from the ducks.

It was a large watch and it had a chain attached to it and he would be able to hang it up in the downstairs room and look at it often.

Again and again he went to the nearby villages to see if anyone was paying any attention to the notices, and he was always fearful lest some stranger might be seen coming up the bumpy hills of Fuddle Muddle to claim it.

But no one wanted the watch. He decided now that he would see if it could be fixed. There had been the time when he had been very handy about watches and clocks.

He worked over the watch after taking it apart. At last he was sure he had fixed it so it would go. It began to tick. Tick-tick, tick-tick. It was a good-sized watch and it ticked quite nicely which Willy Nilly liked. Then he hung it up on his wall. He was about to call all the Fuddle Muddlers to listen to it when a stranger came up the road leading to his house.

For Early Bloom Grow Perennials

The value of perennial plants in the border does not lie in the merit so often claimed for them that they are little trouble and expense because they do not have to be renewed every year. A novice who close to grow perennials for labor saving would be sadly disappointed.

They do not have to be renewed every year, but they have to be cared for throughout the year. This means cultivation in the spring, summer and fall, to fertilization, sometimes winter protection and about every third year.

Have a Few Perennials for Cutting a division and replanting to keep the plants from growing old.

Annals, on the other hand, are sown in the fall or spring in prepared ground and are cultivated in the spring and summer and die in the fall, often seedling themselves for next year's crop. The expense of seed which must be bought is very small.

The difference in trouble and expense between these two classes of flowers is of no importance. Work in the garden is a joy, not a task, provided the total amount undertaken is not unreasonable.

Perennials have merits, however, which are outstanding, and one is that of early blooming. Annals must grow from a seed to a mature plant before flowers are produced, while the perennial starts the year with a fully developed root system, enabling it to produce a top and flower stalks with a speed that often amazes us.

June is the month of bounty in the garden, and in the wonderful display that will soon be at its height there is seldom a single annual. Perennials, also, are magnificent in size and color. They provide most of the flowers that dominate, by force of splendor.

If, in addition to these qualities, they were everblooming, there would be no room for annuals in our gardens. The most of the perennials produce two crops, the finest first in the summer and a minor yield in the fall. To fill in the midsummer period the annuals are indispensable. They also provide colors which are not to be found among the perennials.

Annals for the Mover
The garden-minded person who is living in a rented house, with the possibility of moving away within a short time, might well make use of annual flowers in his garden. The needless expense of buying perennial plants for him isn't necessary, as there are so many hundreds of annuals which will fill every requirement.

If you want to try something different this year, grow some cactus plants from seed. Some types of cactus can be grown this way very easily.

Here is a list of salad material that is not seen often enough in the average home garden: Corn salad, chives, chervil, endive and upland cress. Try them.

Improvements in size and coloring of the new rust-proof snapdragons, (antirrhinum) are amazing.

Coxcomb for the Summer and Winter

Coxcomb or Celosia.

A few plants of coxcomb (celosia) will decorate the garden and be appreciated after summer is gone. They make excellent winter decorations if hung head downward and allowed to dry thoroughly, when their feathery-like flowers in a variety of pastel shades made a delightful and colorful display.

Their massive flowerheads made

Zinnias—"Everybody's Flower"

(By The Master Gardener)

There is perhaps no better illustration of the advancement in plant breeding than the glorious zinnias grown today. Plant breeders have tried to excel one another in improving the existing forms, and are bringing new ones each year to the attention of the flower lover.

And truly, the zinnia is aptly called "Everybody's Flower"—an indispensable garden annual. Types are so many and so varied that there is one suitable for practically every use. The zinnia is one of the most satisfactory flowers to grow throughout the summer, and remarkable for the duration and profusion of its flowers, which keep perfect for weeks before fading. The zinnia is extremely colorful, stands considerably heat, and has few pests. As a cut flower it is unequalled.

Some people object to the rather stiff habit of growth and the rather coarse foliage, yet the color and texture of the foliage form a good background for the wealth of flowers produced.

The zinnia is beautiful both in borders and bedding. The tall varieties make a beautiful summer hedge. The color range is almost unlimited—white, pink, red, carmine, yellow, orange, and lavender.

Blossoms from outdoor sowings may be had from July to October. If you get good seeds, your results will be best, of course but even the best seed cannot compensate for a lack of plant food. One prominent commercial grower says that even perfect strains under starved conditions will sometimes remind us of the zinnia as it formerly was; so if you wish the most beautiful very double flowers, buy good seed, and enrich the seed bed with a complete, balanced plant food before sowing the seed. Apply the plant food at the rate of one rounded tablespoonful per square foot of surface area and work lightly into the soil. Give another feeding when buds begin to show; if sown in beds, apply the second feeding at the rate of one heaping teaspoonful to each square foot of space; if in rows, apply the second feeding at the rate of one heaping teaspoonful to each one foot of row, applying at each side of the row and working into the soil with rake or hoe. Water freely during periods of dry weather. Remember that if grown in a sunny spot, fed well, and given plenty of water, the more completely double the flowers will be.

For early blooms, seed should have been sown in the hotbed in March, or in the coldframe in April, and if you wish very early bloom, you can probably secure plants from your florist.

For general purposes outdoor sowing is very satisfactory, however. Seeds should not be sown until all danger of frost is over, and the soil has become warm. If planted too early and the young plants are subjected to frosts or a period of cold weather, they receive a check which often causes misshapen flowers and also causes extreme variations in color. Zinnias are natives of Mexico and like hot weather and full sunshine, so choose an open sunny position. Plant preferably in rows, spacing the seeds about half an inch deep. When plants are two inches high, thin as they need plenty of room for development—larger sorts should be thinned to about 24 inches, and medium and dwarf sorts to 18 inches or less. Rows should be 2 to 3 feet apart. Cover the sowing with burlap and do not allow the bed to dry out. Remove the burlap as soon as the seed sprouts, which will be in five to six days.

Mildew is about the only troublesome disease of zinnias. To prevent, dust with finely ground sulphur when the first buds are forming. It is most likely to appear in locations where plants are partly shaded.

If the season is very wet, black spot may become a problem. Spray with Bordeaux or dust with copper lime dust to control.

Let the Children Have Their Own Home Garden

The dangers to which children are exposed when playing on the street are known to every anxious parent. If a portion of the home grounds is set aside for a children's playground and garden, and developed and planted with their needs and childish fancies in mind, the youngsters will need little encouragement to stay at home.

Let them grow their own garden. It need not take up much space, and it will prove an excellent incentive to eat the proper foods, having grown them themselves. The growing and study of flowers is a delightful and enlightening avocation. Why not treat the children to an early dose of the culture and refinement of gardening which other influences might overshadow in later life?

A vivid appearance in the garden, and may well be used as accents for the border, or used to fill in dull spots. They come in a variety of colors, including yellows, golds, scarlets, crimson, carmine and orange, all exceptionally brilliant.

They are tender annuals and should be planted late in the season, or transplanted from pots grown in the house. The plumed types like a soil rich in plant food, and may be nourished by dissolving the plant food in water and watering the plants this way. The created types, used for mass effects in beds, like a light soil and less feeding.

Whistling, "Devil's Music"

In numerous parts of the world, whistling is viewed with much superstition. Moslems call it "devil's music" and Icelanders believe it violates a divine law, says Collier's Weekly. Whistling in mines and theatrical dressing rooms is said to court disaster. Many languages have proverbs on its consequences, such as the French maxim: "A hei, that crows and a girl who whistles bring the house bad luck."

Legion Auxiliary And Aides to Sell Poppies Tomorrow

Kingston will pay honor to the World War dead tomorrow by waving the little red poppy of Flanders Field. The day will be Poppy Day here and throughout the United States. Poppies will be distributed on the streets by members of the American Legion Auxiliary assisted by other volunteers.

The day is the approximate twentieth anniversary of the beginning of large scale participation of American troops in the World War. Mrs. Herman DuBois, the Auxiliary's Poppy Day chairman, pointed out, from May until November, 1918, constantly increasing American forces were in action and more than 50,000 young Americans were killed on the poppy-studded fields of France and Belgium.

Early tomorrow morning, the Poppy Day forces of the American Legion Auxiliary will go into action, offering replicas of the wild poppies of France and Belgium to be worn in tribute to the war dead. No price will be asked for the flowers, but contributions will be received to help support the Legion and Auxiliary work for the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Star glamour

versus box office draw is no

new headline in movie producer offices. It has been with them years.

When a New York group of "independent" movie exhibitors recently charged in a paid trade paper advertisement that several toplight stars had starved, official draw, Hollywood retorts, official and otherwise, could be summed up as follows:

Advertising group did not represent mass exhibitor opinion—but localized "beef."

Blast may have been attempt to recast any increase in exhibitor costs for films as the new selling season opened.

High salaries result from competitive demand for star names, but all studios are trying to develop new names constantly.

A star who has proved box office worth can do it again.

From The Record

In the records Hollywood has ample instances to justify the claim. It could cite:

Barbara Stanwyck, whose choice for "Stella Dallas" was deemed foolhardy even in Hollywood where she was regarded poor draw, "Stella Dallas" and Stanwyck clicked.

William Powell, now sixth on same poll, who was considered all washed up when he left Warners after series of poor pictures, but clicked big in "The Thin Man" and other hits at Metro.

Clark Gable, whose popularity seemed temporarily checked until he made "It Happened One Night," has risen steadily until now second only to Shirley Temple in draw.

A Few Prospects

Here is the speculative outlook for some names named by the advertisers:

Katharine Hepburn, sold hit in "Little Women," fell off through later films, some unfortunate, some fine, but not big grossers, has broken with RKO over story disagreement. Has excellent chance in forthcoming Columbia film.

Marlene Dietrich, hit in the foreign-made "The Blue Angel" and in Hollywood's "Morocco,"

"Shanghai Express" and others, has had a series of flops but is signed with Columbia to be directed by star-making, star-saving

Frank Capra.

Joan Crawford, in the Big Ten

1934-35-36, rated 16 in the 1937 poll, still considered good draw by studio despite several unsensational films. She has signed new five-year contract and may be put forth as singing star with secretly developed voice.

MODENA

Modena, May 27.—Memorial

Day services will be conducted in the Modena Rural Cemetery

Monday, under the auspices of the Sullivan Shafter Post, American Legion, New Paltz. Scout troops will participate in the program. Veterans' graves will be decorated as in former years.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church will meet Thursday afternoon, June

2, with Mrs. Lester Arnold.

The regular meeting of the Modena Fire Department will be held at the firehouse, Thursday evening, June 2.

Annual Children's Day exercises will be conducted Sunday,

June 2, in the Modena Methodist Church, by members of the Sunday School. Baptism will be made at this time.

Mrs. Curtis Eldred, Highland,

visited Mr. and Mrs. Lester

Wager Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Jemima Steen, Kingston, is visiting her niece, Mrs. Anna

Miller.

Miss Bertha Jansen, teacher of the Silva school, accompanied her pupils on a visit to the Modena school Wednesday afternoon, where they enjoyed a lecture on Indian life.

Local people attended the public sale of farm implements at T.

Tofal's, at Plattekill, Wednesday

The killing and funeral (above) of two Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia brought German-Czech relations to a strained peak. Other powers anxiously waited for developments. ## Roosa Succeeds Supt. Conway

Before the days of the WPA, and when Henry Post was chairman of the Emergency Work Relief in this city, Mr. Roosa was superintendent of the street construction for the city's work relief. That was when Henry street, Mary's avenue, Clinton avenue and other streets were reconstructed. Shortly after the federal government took over work relief from the city with the organization known as the WPA, Mr. Roosa was engaged as chief inspector by the city engineer. Last fall he went as general foreman with James P. Loughran, county superintendent of highways, where he has since been employed.

The board in appointing Mr. Roosa as superintendent said "he will bring to the superintendent's office a seasoned experience in the type of work encountered in the public works department, and an ability to effectively direct the efforts of others, and an air of quiet modesty and courtesy that will please the public." The new superintendent will be closely associated with Mr. Conway from now until June 1, in order to familiarize himself with the departmental procedures and methods which made the Conway administration of the public works department such an outstanding success.

Battle Grasshoppers
Springer, N. M., May 27 (AP).—Farmers in several midwestern and southwestern states battled steadily increasing grasshopper hordes today and gave themselves only 11 days to win or lose their war of eradication. Ranchers agreed the war must be won before the insects take flight. The young, wingless hoppers soon will take off to almost inaccessible arroyos and brush covered hills, where they can lay millions of eggs in comparative safety.

Joey's Fifth Inning Blow Knots Score Saving the Knights Game Called

Rain and Darkness Necessitates Calling Contest in 6th Inning—No Game Tonight, Kyanize, Joneses May 31

Rain and dusk came along together last night at the Athletic Field to break up one of the smartest games of this muddled baseball month when Jones Dairy, leaders of the City Baseball League, came to grips with the K. of C. team. By mutual consent the game ended in the sixth inning, with the score 3-3.

But it's a week of "firsts" for Wednesday night Eddie Minasian slammed out the first three-base hit of the season. Then in last night's duel, with two men on base and with his team trailing 2-0 in the last of the fifth, Joey Hoffman faced Toddy Uhl and stepped into a fast one for a soaring smash into deep center field.

Hoffman's drive carried Al Flanagan and Turk across the plate, and although a delayed toss-in arrived at home plate at the same time Joey did and Hoffman hit the dirt, his run was scored with sufficient margin of safety to give him a clean enough homer. In any event it was the last time a runner crossed the plate.

Both teams went into the fifth inning with two hits apiece. Uhl, who walked, was tossed out on a see-saw steal to second, and then Chappie Vanderzee went to first after Brown, Casey pitcher, winged him. George Zadany drove to left and gained second on a fielder's choice. Van Derzee went to third. Schatzel hit to second scoring Van Derzee and on Lay's wild pitch to second Zadany raced home. On a passed ball by Hoffman, Schatzel raced to second. M. Berardi hit sharply to left for a single and Schatzel was taken home. Hopper struck out for the third down, after Andy Celuch had popped out to Lay.

In the last of the sixth Martin was struck on the hand by Toddy Uhl and dropped to the ground. After a moment or two he climbed to his feet and took his base. Following the game he was taken to a physician for medical treatment.

Toddy Uhl truck out five men and Brown four. Each side collected five hits. Errors were checked against Turk and Flanagan.

It'll be an exciting ball game when the Joneses and the Caseys fight it out to settle the draw, and it'll be a game the fans'll be looking forward to.

There's one thing the boys haven't done this year: None has tipped a high foul into a passing New York Central freight car.

The boys got their new balls last night and no expressions of regret were heard.

Treasurer Banks, who does such faithful sideline work for the league among the fans, regretted the small crowd. "But it's the weather," he said, "and if we have a clear night the next time these boys meet just count the fans. That will be something."

Last night's game finished the schedule for this week. Monday, May 30, Jones Dairy and Kyanize will play.

Hoffman's Homer Brings Him Prize Given by Weierich

That home run Joey Hoffman hit for the Knights of Columbus last night in the City League, netted him $5, Al Weierich, of Kingston Central, K. of C., announced today.

Weierich, who is a member of the lecturer's staff, which has to do with promotion of sports programs within the council, said, "That homer makes Joey Hoffman $5 richer, because I have offered that much to the Knight hitting a circuit clout with a man on base."

Hoffman's long distance hit accounted for three runs, tying the score with the Jones Dairy team. The game was called with the tally knotted on account of rain and darkness.

Weierich said that in addition to the $5 prize offered by him for the Casey player hitting a homer with a man on the sack, another awaits the man who hits for the circuit to score one run.

Hoffman was not available for interview today, but undoubtedly he'll be much happier over hitting the heavy clout after the information reaches him that he won the prize, the first of the season.

Weierich's offer is good for Knights of Columbus players only. He made it to stimulate the Caseys into playing championship ball all season and be right on top when the time rolls around for the pennant.

Harry Lauder, singing Scotsman, has disclosed in a letter that he hopes to "be spared to make another tour in the U. S. A. and Canada."

ON SECOND THOUGHT, the spectators and players decided against questioning the umpire's decision when a newspaper men's baseball nine played a congressman's team at Fort Hunt, Va. The umpire (center) was Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, and no man to be quarreled with, though Eric Friedheim did try to—but not for very long.

Move to Seed the Walker Players

Troon, Scotland, May 27 (AP)—A movement to seed American Walker Cup players in future British amateur championships has started here since the defeat of Johnny Goodman and Johnny Fischer by teamsters.

Harold W. Pierce, vice president of the United States Golf Association, may discuss this with Henry Cullen, secretary of the Royal and Ancient, when they meet to talk over the rules before the Walker Cup matches.

Certainly one of the most decisive matches of the current championship was the Fischer-Charlie Yates struggle in the first round won by Yates, America's only quarter-finalist, on a stroke.

The surprising defeat of the United States Walker Cup players has raised hopes for the first British victory in next week's matches. At St. Andrews the betting is even money that Britain will win and the chances are the British may be setting favorites before next Thursday.

Saugerties Has 2 Games Slated Over Week-End

The M. & F. Tavern team of Saugerties will play two home games at Canine Field, Sunday and Monday, meeting upstate teams as opponents.

Sunday the Amsterdam A. C. will be at the village and Monday the Scotch Stars will furnish the opposition.

Although no definite assignment has been given it is presumed that Sweet and Howie Fluhr, recently returned to the lineup, will alternate in handling the mound assignment.

Mayor Heiselman Starts Midget Races Sunday At New Woodstock Track

One more day remains before the midget autos are set into a whirl on Legion Speedway in Woodstock by the crack of a gun held by Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman of Kingston.

Thousands of sports fans from all along the Hudson valley and from the four other states besides New York, furnishing drivers, are expected to flock to the art colony for the day of thrills and spills Sunday.

Starting time of the features is 2:30 o'clock, but there will be tuneups and trials from 11:30 in the morning on up until the main event, so a full day's program is in store for followers of the midgets.

Heralded by a popular magazine this week as "The Sport that Thrills Millions", midget racing is expected to make a big hit at Woodstock and establish a good following for the other races to be held every two weeks during the summer.

The latest addition to the list of drivers entered for the races is Bob Wright of 130 Cannon street, Poughkeepsie. There are 30 speed demons on the slate now to compete for the guaranteed cash prizes.

26 Kingston High Track Athletes At Port Jervis Meet on Saturday

Coaches G. Warren Kias and Loyne Conrick will leave Kingston High School by bus Saturday morning at 8 o'clock with 26 athletes to represent the Maroon and White in the annual DUSO League field and track meet at Port Jervis.

This year's crop of barriers looks good to battle it out with Newburgh for first place in the big meet drawing down the curtain on the field and track season. Last year, Kingston ended up in the third slot, but the story should be a different one tomorrow, say followers of the Maroon.

The following boys will make the trip: 100 yard dash—Mike Weiner, Bud Jones, Captain Bill You.

Array of Sluggers Booked to Battle At the Auditorium

Another sensational boxing show is promised by the Kingston A. C. tonight at the municipal auditorium, offering the same sort of thrills the fans enjoyed last week.

From the opening gong at 9 o'clock until the last punch is thrown, there should be plenty of action, if past performances of the boxers billed can be taken as a criterion.

Parent-Teacher Association

Woodstock.

Woodstock, May 27—Officers were elected at the P.T.A. meeting held in the Woodstock school on Wednesday. The new officers are the Rev. William A. Hudson, president; Mrs. Baldwin, first vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Stowell, Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Gus Schrader, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Hastie, treasurer.

After Mrs. Layman, retiring president, had opened the meeting, the discussion centered about the purchase of play ground equipment for the school yard. C. E. Lindin, retiring trustee, and the Rev. Mr. Hudson were appointed as a committee to investigate the matter and to see about the raising of funds. The equipment under consideration would include benches and tables for outdoor lunches and study, as well as swings and slides. It is also hoped that a fence can be erected around the play ground of the kindergarten and primary building. Mr. Lindin offered to attend to the matter. Mr. Lindin reported that he had had the poison ivy rooted out of the school ground and rock salt spread on the roofs. This he hopes will settle the problem which has been a source of trouble for a number of years.

Several details were attended to before the election of officers, the most important of them being the recommendation that all children entering the school in the fall receive medical and dental examinations so that they may be in good physical condition by the opening of school.

The meeting was closed by the new president, the Rev. Mr. Hudson, who presided following the election.

YOU'RE ALWAYS IN THE SWIM IF YOU CAN TELL GAY FORTUNES

As fascinating as the Queen of the Gypsies herself—that's Madame since she learned simple tips on fortune-telling.

To Jack, who yearns to roll in money, she says: "That Ace of Diamonds promises a trip soon, with money in it. The Seven of Diamonds, a wealthy friend who may give you a leg up. There's the Queen of Spades, a lucky card for men."

To romantic Mildred, "The King of Diamonds says an ardent suitor will soon be pursuing you. The Two of Hearts—a gift from him. The King of Clubs says fate will smile on you."

To Jane who hoped her fortune would glitter with success cards, "An unusual honor is ahead, that Seven of Hearts says. Perhaps you'll be the national head of your sorority. The Six of Clubs, an exciting new job. The Nine of Hearts, your wish comes true."

Once you've learned the knack you can weave fortunes even around a campfire. A wheel-shaped spark promises a legacy; a drum-like spark hints a fuss. In handwriting you can easily read personality secrets. A forward slant implies impulsiveness; wide spaces, extravagance.

Our 40-page booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, explains card fortunes, tea-leaf reading, numbers, dreams.

Send 15c for our booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.
